Andrew Harvey believes that everyone has a direct connection to the divine and that finding this direct connection is the clue to the kind of radical self empowerment that can help you become a passionate and peaceful and brave sacred activist. He will share his vision of the 4 kinds of practices that he believes are essential for the transformation our times are calling for.

You will learn:

- Cool practices that can help you connect with Divine Being and its great peace.
- Hot practices that help you fuse with the heart of the Divine.
- Prayer practices that enable you to keep constantly aligned with the Beloved.
- Sacred body practices that open your whole body to the subtle images of divine love.

A life-changing transformational experience can be the result of using these practices.
